POETRY.

We see it announced, sayes the N. Y. Tribune, that Gen. Charles G. Halpine—officially known as City Register, politically known as the Democratic Union Party, and poetically as Miles O'Reilly—has been appointed to present the claims of Mr. Chase to the Democratic Convention. Gen. Halpine will introduce his speech by singing the following verses from one of his best known lyrics. We fancy the sensations the strains of his manly and spirited tenor voice will create as he warbles the following:

Come fill your glasses, fellows,
And stand up in a row,
On a Presidential drinking
We are going for to go;
Let us have no more discussion here,
At least no more to-night—
While for President Ulysses Grant
We take our foremost fight!
O, for President Ulysses
Let every glass be bright—
May he rule the country he has saved,
And God defend the right!

In the world to-day no prouder name
Is borne on any breeze.
And with Grant to steer the ship of State,
Our flag shall rule the sea;
No "Dominion" shall be North of us,
And South of us no foe—
Our Stars and Stripes in the Canadas,
And likewise Mexico!
For with President Ulysses
Will be few who care to fight—
May he rule the country he has saved,
And God defend the right!

So, boys! a final bumper,
While we all in chorus chant—
"For next President we nominate
Our own Ulysses Grant!"
And if asked what State he hails from,
This our sole reply shall be,
From near Appomatox Court House,
With its famous apple-tree!"
For 'twas there to our Ulysses
That Lee gave up the fight—
Now, boys, "To Grant for President,
And God defend the right!"

IN SEARCH OF "THE WEST."

Another Trip to the End of the Pacific Railroad.—What was Seen on the Way.—Omaha and the Valley of the Platte—Notes by the way.

Correspondence of the Advertiser and Tribune.

ADRIAN, June 11th, 1868.

The General Conference adjourned June 2, at 1 o'clock P. M., and two hours later the party were at the Wells street depot, Chicago, where stood the westward bound train for the Pacific coast. Here we found the splendid new sleeping-car Dacotah, now on the track for her first trip, placed at the service of the party by Mr. G. W. Pullman, the original patentee and present owner of the car. With many thanks to the generous sleeping-car man, of whom, were Sancho Panza now living, he would add, to his wonderful discovery of a blessing, "to the man who invented sleep," another blessing to the man who invented a place to sleep in while on the go. We were off.

The first stage of the trip is across the State of Illinois, via. Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. Ordinarily speaking, Illinois is something of a State, but somehow—we were thinking of the West, a boundless myth that never has yet been reached—and in comparison with "out west" Illinois was only a taste of travel. Six hours and Illinois is past, the Mississippi is reached and crossed by the moonlight. Crossing, the mind ranges quickly from its source to its mouth, its scenery, tines, fortunes and histories, past, present and future. We are across. Iowa is before us, and challenges our powers of endurance, while it offers visions of beauty in rolling prairie, rich soil and thriving towns, that it is difficult to realize as facts.

Eighteen hours, and the city "Council Bluffs" indicates that Iowa is passsed. The Missouri lies between us and Nebraska, and, as the cars sweep around a gentle curve, we catch the first view of the State House of Nebraska in Omaha.

Before we go over, let us look for a moment at the dark, sullen tide that rolls at our feet. There is no bridge yet; so we take a ferry. This, then, is the Missouri. "What do you think of it?" is passed along. Evidently everybody is disappointed. There is no poetry nor beauty; it is grand only because it is big. It is the largest and longest mud-hole in the world, with a rapid current, and navigable for a large class af steamboats.

Crossing, we find ourselves in Nebraska, and Omaha greets us with true Western hospitality. We have an hour to wash, eat, and look around, in which time we do a considerable of all. This is truly a wonderful town. Laid out in 1855, it now has a population of about 15,000, brick blocks, elegant dwellings, churches, stores and hotels, and is talking up a street railway. This is the eastern terminus of the Pacific Railroad, and the house of our accomplished friend, Hon. G. W. Frost, to whom the party owe so much for the pleasure of the trip.

At 4 P. M. we again embarked for the West, for out here nobody thinks that Omaha is west at all. We spent the Sabbath here on our return. In the afternoon there was a children's meeting. On the way home I fell in company with a bright-eyed little girl of about seven or eight summers, and while talking about the Sunday School and the meeting, I asked her how she liked living in Omaha, when she replied that she did not like it as well as she did "out West." I asked her what she called "out West," when she looked at me in surprise and said, "Why, out about Denver and so on."

A ride of 35 miles, through the most beautiful country we have yet seen, brings us to the Valley of the Platte. The country is enchanting endeed.—The line of the road is up the North Branch of the Platte River for about 270 miles. After about 150 miles we begin to enter the alkali region, which abounds in grass and is the sweet buffalo range. We passed through the best of this in the night, though some of us determined to see what we could, even by moon-light.

Six-thirty A. M. found us at the North Piatte, where we breakfasted, and met the first installment of Indians—Pawnees, belonging to Spotted Tail, and Standing Elk's band,—the most degraded objects that ever met our sight. What is to become of them, or what is to be done with them Infinite wisdom alone can tell. Here, too, we met a small body of U. S, soldiers.—This afternoon, Thursday, June 4, our ride was through the alkali regions.—About 9. A. M. we saw the first antelope, and were eager to see. Poor creatures, they have a habit of running in a straight line when frightened.—Some of them ran for miles in sight of our cars before the iron horse, whose muscles never tire, left them in the rear. The country here is oppressive—such a wild waste. You ride for miles and hours and hours and look. Grass and space alone greet you, and you long to see something. There is a weird, unnatral look of all you see premonishing the traveler that he is approaching the presence of that before which language will be tame, and thought itself restrained.

A little while and we begin to see the outcroppings of the grand range of mountains in the Black Hills. The approach is so gradual that it is almost imperceptable. There are no ragged rocks and jagged precipices, that speak of mountains near, but everything is on such a grand scale. The hills are the waves of the ocean. Miles are passed in ascending, so that in going up or down great plains stretch out before you, and it is difficult to realize that we are climbing mountains.

Omaha, the eastern terminus of the road, is 967 feet above the water.—Cheyenne, at the eastern base of the Black Hills, 517 miles west of Omaha, is 6,062 feet, or about an average of 10 feet to the mile. The distance from Cheyenne to Sherman, the summit of the Rocky Mountains, is 32 miles, with 2,200 feet to overcome, giving a grade of about 71 feet to the mile. These grades, passed over in such a country, giving such a grand sweep to the eye, leave the impression upon the sense that, after all, we are still passing through plains. At 6:40 P. M. the the summit was reached at Sherman, named in honor of Gen. Sherman—known to have a passion for hills as well as for the sea. Here we staid for a few minutes and join in singing "My Country 'tis of Thee." And never did such ideas of our country possess the minds of that party as then and there on the summit of the Rocky Mountains, in sight of those snow-covered peaks, that pillowed themselves against the clouds, those vast prairies so recently passed, those mighty rivers crossed, and mountains climbed. "My Country" meant more than it ever did before.—Fifteen minutes and we are on the western slope of the Rocky Mountains, and at 8:15 P. M. we are at Laramie, 1,066 miles from Chicago, or 53 hours of ceasless riding. This Laramie is just three weeks old as a town, and contains a population of 600. Here vice reigns, outlawry is the order, and the "Vigilence Committee" is the only security for life or property. Gambling and rioting are the order of the day.—Here we spent the night in our sleeping car, and early the next morning, June 5, started with a special train for the end of the road, about 60 miles from Laramie. Twenty miles and we reach Wyoming, situated in the midst of the Laramie plains, at the junction of the Big and Little Laramie Rivers. These plains are most beautiful and offer the most beautiful scenery of any that we have yet seen, traversed from northwest to southeast by what on a smaller scale would be called a gorge, but here spreads out like the bed and valley of some mighty river that ages ago had run its race and dried up.—

We had several old travelers in our party who had visited Europe, Egypt and Palestine, but with one consent agreed that nothing so grand with such beautiful symmetry could be seen in the old world. It has more of the aspect of landscape gardening on a scale that overwhelms the sense. Our train moved slowly. The prairies stretch out without limit, bounded only by the horizon or the snow-capped peaks 100 miles away. Occasionally the waters in the Laramie River sparkled in the sunlight, and this great dry river bed and vally and bank, from 20 to 150 feet high, filled the vision. This view alone is worth the labor of the whole trip to see. We cross the gorge or dry river, on a bridge 300 feet long, 150 feet from the track to the bottom. Here a little silvery rivulet still runs, a kind of souvenir of the untold past.

Across this point we hasten to the end of the road. At 11 A. M. we are in the midst of a snow-storm, overcoats on, fire in both stoves in the car; this surely is another world. By 1 P. M. the storm is over, the sun is shining clear, and in a little while we reach the point where the work of the Creator and the creature are in the most marked contrast of any other place in the world. The mountain, plain and river are here in their glory and grandeur. And here, too, is a land company, or small army of men, surmounting difficulties at a rate of progress that must be seen to be believed.

Gen. J. S. and D. C. Casement, of Ohio, grade the road, lay the track, and put up the telegraph. Forward is the battle-cry, and at the word 2,000 graders go before, and 1,500 tie-getters and layers close up the open track. And now come 400 track-layers with rails, spikes, shovels, and sledges, stopping right here. Look. There are the boarding-cars—three of them—fitted up for offices, sleeping apartments, kitchen and all. These are pushed to the [illegible] construction train follows up closely, and on either side are loads of ties, rails, chairs and spikes, and taking hold of the boarding-car, pulls it back, so that the small track cars, drawn by horses, can run back to the material, where, making a load, the horses are driven rapidly to the end of the track. On each side of these trucks are rollers, on which the rails are first thrown, where they are seized by the trackmen.—Here the language of another speaks so precisely and eloquently, I quote from one who recently witnessed this scene 200 miles farther east:

"The rails within reach, parties of five men stand on either side. One in the rear throws a rail upon the rollers, three in advance seize it, and run out with it to the proper distance. The chairs have, meantime, been set under the last rails placed. The two men in the rear, with a single swing, force the end of the rail into the chair, and the chief of the squad calls out, 'Down,' in a tone that equals the 'Forward' to an army. Every 30 seconds there rame that brave 'Down,' on either side the track. They were the pendulum beats of a mighty era; they marked the time of the march and its regulation beat."

Having witnessed this wonderful work, and driven a spike in the last rail we saw laid— as did Bishop Simpson and several of the party—we responded to the invitation of Gen. Casement to dine with him in the boarding car. Here a sumptuous dinner of beef steak, vegetables, canned fruits, etc., awaited us. We sat down to dinner in one place, but rose up in another, for while we were dining the car had been pushed nearly one-fourth of a mile over teack that had been laid while we were at dinner. The rate of progress with these track-layers is from three to three and a half miles a day.

"All aboard," once more, and our faces are turned toward the East. Disappointed in one thing at last, we have not found "the West;" for even here the officials and men, and some gentlemen we fell in with to-day, were talking about going West. Returning to Larime we again spend the night in our sleeping-car, and at 5 A. M. are off for what the boys here call "the States."

A word about the road. When once complete, its influence on commerce, must be revolutionary. For the interest on money in the difference of time of goods coming from the far East by this route or the ordinary sea route, will itself be a very handsome profit.—The Government aid, with the rich landed interest and the personal capital pledged to the completion of the road is a sure guarantee that in less than two years from this date a man will eat his breakfast on Monday morning in New York, and take his supper on Saturday night of the same keck in SanFrancisco.

No grander excursion can be planned than the one we have just completed. To know one's own country as far as opportunity offers, is one of the first duties of citizenship. And it now seems to me that a view of this vast land we call our country, with its untold resources, is worth to an American citizen more than all the world can offer.

As to excursions, we will not be arrogant and say that ours cannot be equalled, but one thing we will contend for, it cannot be beaten. Our party homogeneous, the weather delightful, our opportunities all that we could ask for, the whole trip was indeed a sucession of joys. Story, and pun, and joke, and song, and speech (for we held several organized meetings) were happily interposed.

Crossing the North Platte just at the close of day, Saturday evening, we organized a religious meeting. Rev. J. B. Wakely, D. D., of New York, led us in prayer; Rev. Mr. Lemmon, P. E., of Omaha District, opened the meeting with some remarks, which were followed one after another, by nearly the whole party, and was one of the best meetings I have ever enjoyed. Chaplain McCabe, the inimitable singer, led the singing, and all joined, "Thus far the Lord hath led me on," "Shall we gather at the river," and closed with:

"And if our fellowship below
In Jesus be so sweet,
What hights of rapture shall we know
When around his throne we meet."

And thus closed a love feast, more than 75 miles long, that will be remembered by all who were present as a joyous hour, full of loved memories. One thing we felt sure of, that an excursion to the mountains or to the West could be had and enjoyed without wine, drunkenness, cards or profanity.

In a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our power to add or detract. The world will little note nor long remember what we say here. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us; that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they here gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that the dead shall not have died in vain; that the nation shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that Government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth.—Lincoln.

The renowned Bro. Turenne would never allow himself to be what was called "concerned in all affair of honor." Once when the hero of Switzheim and the Rhine had half drawn his sword to punish a disgusting insult to which he had been subjected by a rash young officer, he thrust it back into the sheath with the words: "Young man, could I wipe your blood from my conscience with as much ease as I can this filthy proof of your folly from my face I would take [illegible]

IMPORTANCE OF PRESENCE OF MIND.

1. If a man faints, place him flat on his back, and let him alone.

2. If any poison be swallowed, drink instantly a half glass of cool water, with a heaping teaspoonful each of common salt and ground mustard stirred into it; this vomits as soon as it reaches the stomach; but for fear some of the poison may remain, swallow the white of one or two raw eggs, or drink a cup of strong coffee, these two being antidotes for a greater number of poisons than any other articles known, with the advantage of their always being at hand; if not, a pint of sweet oil, or lamp oil, or "drippings," or melted butter, or lard, are good substances, especially if they vomit quickly.

3. The best thing to stop the bleeding, of a moderate cut instantly is to cover it profusely with cobweb, flour and salt, half and half.

4. If the blood comes from a wound by jets or spirts, be spry, or the man will die in a few minutes, because an artery is severed; tie a handkerchief loosely around, near the part between the wound and the heart; put a stick between the handkerchief and the skin, and twist it around until the blood ceases to flow; keep it there until the doctor comes; if in a position where the handkerchief cannot be used, press the thumb on a spot near the wound, between the wound and the heart; increase the pressure until the bleeding ceases, but do not lessen it for an instant until the physician arrives, so as to glue up the wound by coagulation or cooling of hardening blood.

5. If your clothing takes fire, slide the hands down the dress, keeping them as close to the body as possible, at the same time sinking to the floor by bending the knees; this has a smothering effect upon the flames; if not extinguished or great headway gotten, lie down on the floor, and roll over and over; or, better, envelope yourself in carpet, rug, bedcloth, or any garment you can get hold of, always preferring woolen.

6. If the body is tired, rest, if the brain is tired, sleep.

7. If the bowels are loose, lie down in a warm bed; remain there and eat nothing until you are well.

8. If the action of the bowels does not occur at the usual hour, eat not an atom until the do act, at least for thirty-six hours; meanwhile, drink largely of cold water or hot teas, and exercise in the open air to the extent of a gentle perspiration, and keep this up until things are righted; this suggestion, if practiced, would save myriads of lives every year both in city and country.

9. The three best medicines in the world are warmth, abstinence and repose.—Hall's Journal of Health.

A REMINISCENCE OF REV. DR. ALEXANDER.

A writer in the Evangelist gives the following interesting reminiscence of Rev. James W. Alexander:

"While he lived in Chambers street, New York, we spent a morning with him in his study; he rearranging his library and overhaulin old letters, while we sat laughing and enjoying his riot of mirth and reminiscence, surrounded by piles of books and manuscript. The turning up of letters from such men as Summerfield, Nevius, Kirk, and Breckenridge, set him upon pleasant sketches of 'these men'; and in one of Summerfield's letters occurred the expression, 'I leave the selection of my language till I get into pulpit, for the best word always comes to me in the heat of the monument.' Dr. Alexander then broke out into a diatribe against dull essay-reading in the pulpit. Taking up three or four huge packages of sermons, and pitching them over into the corner, he said—"There goes the labor of my life; and now, after twenty years of experience, I candidly say that if I could live my life over again I never would take one of those manuscripts into the pulpit. I would try to take them in my head, and not on paper. We are sacrificing preaching to essay-reading. Yet I would have thorough preparation, and then an unhampered delivery with great enthusiasm. My young friend, aim at a high degree of passion, especially when you are preaching in doctrine. Argument made red-hot is what pleases people, and interests them. Argument admits of great vehemence and fire. No man can be a great preacher without great feeling. Aim at a high, holy enthusiasm. The old Greek tragedies used to stir people up, and keep open the founts of rage and tears. Many ministers are enthusiastic about other things, such as art, poetry, authorship, or politics. Their week day conversation is full of entertainment, but their Sabbath sermon is like a sponge from which all the moisture is squeezed out. Live for your sermons; life in your sermon. Get some starling to cry sermon, sermon, sermon. The best discourses are the efflux of a man's best thoughts and feelings during the week. It is manifestly so with Melville and Chalmers."

The following is by Geo. H. Boker, author of so much beautiful poetry during the war.

As Moses stood upon the flaming hill,
With all the people gathered at his feet,
Waiting on Sinai's valley there to meet
The awful bearer of Jehovah's will—
So Grant there stand'st amidst the trumpet's shrill,
And the wild fiery storms that flash and beat
In iron thunder and in leaden sleet.
Topmost of all and most exposed to ill,
O stand thou firm, great leader of our race,
Hope of our future, till the times grow bland
And into the ashes drops war's dying brand;
Then let us see thee, with benignant grace
Descend the hight, God's glory on thy face,
And the law's tables safe within thy hand!

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Ulysses S. Grant

OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,

SCHUYLER COLFAX

OF INDIANA.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention, to nominate candidates for State officers, and electors for President and Vice-President, and for the transaction of other business, will be held in the CITY OF DETROIT, at Merrill Hall, on WEDNESDAY, the 1st day of July, 1868, at 11 o'clock, a. m. The several counties will send two delegates for each Representative in the lower branch of the State Legislature, and every organized county having no Representative will be entitled to one delegate. All citizens who favor the speedy Reconstruction of the States lately in rebellion upon the basis of loyalty, equal rights and impartial justice; who would maintain the national honor in the just payment of the national debt; who would equalize and reduce taxation as fast as the national faith will permit; who would have the Government administered with the strictest economy, and the corruptions shamefully fostered by Andrew Johnson radically reformed; who would have the naturalized citizen abroad protected equally with others; who sympathise with all oppressed peoples' who are struggling for equal rights for all men everywhere; who will support the victorious Hero of the late war, and his gallant associate, Schuyler Colfax, are cordially invited to co-operate.

By a resolution of 1858, no delegate will be entitled to a seat who does not reside in the county he represents. By order.

W. A. HOWARD, Chairman.
W. S. WOOD, Secretary.

WHY SHOULD IRISHMEN VOTE THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET?

One of the strangest phenomona is the fact that Irishmen vote the Democratic ticket—not that all Irishmen do, but that a single Irishman should do so. They flee from the oppression of the Mother Country, and array themselves at once with the party favoring oppression here. They cast their ballots against those very principles of Equal Rights, and equal justice to all men, which they are seeking with such sincere zeal to bestow upon their native land. While professing the most liberal ideas—while anathematising the injustice of the English oligarhcy—they permit themselves to be led blindly to the polls in the interest of the reactionist and the oppressor, thus contradicting their professions by their actions, and causing their exertions in behalf of Ireland to be viewed with suspicion and distrust by thinking men everywhere, as a mere cloak to hide some ulterior and purely selfish object. Thus did the old Puritans of New England, fleeing from oppression, become the meanest oppressors. The Irish betray the most virulent hatred of the oppressed—enthusiastic zeal in behalf of the oppressor. They were the best allies the old aristocratic slaveholders had. These same upholders of oppression will largely vote against the ticket embodying whatever of advanced liberalism there is in the country. The Democratic party is the opponent of liberal ideas; it is the ally of old England. The Republican is the real friend of oppressed Irishmen, and of oppressed people everywhere. It is the foe of a shameless and falsely named party. Why should Irishmen vote against themselves?

ARKANSAS.

This State, the first ripe fruit of Reconstruction, has been received into the Union—carried over the veto of the President. Johnson does all he can to oppose reconstruction, but in vain. The Senators have been admitted by the Senate. The bill admitting five other States is in the hands of the President, awaiting his veto.

LATEST NEWS.

The "omnibus bill," so called, has received the inevitable veto, and passed over the veto in both Houses, by a strict party vote. South and North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana, and Florida, are also States in the Union, once more in full affiliation.—All honor and glory to this Congress!

WHO IS WISE?—I asked the statesman, "Who is wise?" He replied, "The man who best understands the fundamental principles of civil and political government."

The man of swords reponds, "He is wise who can vanquish an army more powerful than his own."

The wiser thought, that every one knew that the wise man was he who gets muteh and spends nothing.

The man of letters informed me, that he was wise who felt himself perfectly at home in the whole circle of the arts and sciences.

The physician said, "He is wise who is successful in removing to the diseases of the human system."

I heard these and various other replies, and being dissatisfied with all, I sought the Bible, and with augmented earnestness I repeated my inquiry, "Who is wise?" and I met this satisfactory answer, "He that winneth souls is wise!"

"FOUND AT LAST, after trying all others," says L. B. Gurnett, Esq., of Albany, "'Barrett's Restorative' has worked wonders, placing my hair back to its original color."

WHAT THE NATION LOST BY THE FAILURE OF IMPEACHMENT.

E. B. Ward in his speech at Cleveland developes in a masterly manner the loss to the nation by the failure of impeachment and consequently the non-inauguration of honest old Ben. Wade. But the election of Gen. Grant will set it all right. Mr. Ward says:

While canvassing Congress for advocates to our plans and measures I found one of the firmest, stauncheset and most out-spoken friends to our whole programme to be the Hon. B. F. Wade, of this State, and as there was a reasonable probability that he might be made President for a short time, I did the best I could to secure his sympathy and support, hoping that we might have the executive as well as the legislative branch of the Government working together for our common good.

You have probably heard the grave charge laid at the door of Mr. Wade that he was a conspirator. This charge, serious as it may seem, is to my certain knowledge true. He had entered into a conspiracy against the assumed rights, and certainly against the interest of a vast army of our patriotic fellow citizens, and if Johnson had been removed that deep laid plot would have been devloped in all its huge proportions.

First in order and most important in amount was his design against that in corruptible set of patriots called the "Whisky Ring." He had learned from his extensive observations that no man who was simple enough to pay the whole whisky tax could manufacture whisky at all, and he conceived the base idea of compelling the payment of the whole tax on all the whisky manufactured, or the annihilation of the delinquent distilleries and the incarceration of those pious men in prison. This plot, would if carried out, take from the whisky thieves about $60,000,000 per annum.

His next wicked plan was to wind up the tobacco ring and save if possible $15,000,000. The third plot was to make an effort to get some honest men in the custom houses, if such articles could be found, and to reduce them to the number necessary for the work performed. This project would save to the country many millions of dollars.

His next plot was to insist upon a reduction of the navy to about fifteen light cruisers. This would save to the government at least 15,000,000 that is now being squandered in gaudy bravado in foreign countries. Another of his schemes was to reduce the army to about 17,000 men and to have the paymasters and officers reduced to the complement needed for full regiments. This wicked design would have saved in the pockets of tax-payers $20,000,000 of money now being squandered in useless shoulder-straps and on gilded and expensive idlers.

But of all vile schemes this arch-conspirator devised, none seemed to cut the patriotism and devoted self-sacrifice of our noble Fessenden and numerous others of his associates so deeply and keenly as the projected decapitation of the army of lazy relatives and political hucksters, who got tacked on the government during and since the war, and whom you and your representatives have had to support ever since. I tell you, gentlemen, in all sincerity, that you have paid at least $100,000,000 annual taxation since the war closed that ought to have been avoided, and I tell you further that of all the men who took a deep and honest interest in the correction of this terrible evil, Ben. Wade was the strongest and best, and if in the bitter conflicts of party strife he had come into Executive power, you would have seen the most radical revolution in the character and capacity of the public service that ever occurred in this or any other country.

One of his most practical projects proposed, was to allow each leading trade in the United States to appoint an agent who was to be authorized to examine into the apprisals of all imported goods, with a view to prevent the immense undervaluation, which enables our Stewart and a few other favored importers to undersell all other traders, and whom the public believe have made there vast fortunes through this indirect means.

At least 39,000 men who are now eating the bread that you earn and pay for, would have been released from their idle lives and compelled to have supported themselves as we do. This, gentlemen, was the great unpardonable conspiracy, this is the real reason why Andrew Johnson is now occupying the high office of President of the United States.

It is said Chase's friends propose to back him up in New York with $1,600,000. The Democratic party is corruption intensified, and the nomination will be bought with money. Says the New York Day Book, the leading Democratic organ of the country:

The delegates to the Democratic convention of July must come here prepared to combat an amount of political corruption in their own ranks, which has never been exceeded in the blackest period of the dominant party. The infamous New York ring work under the secret countersign of 'rule or ruin;' and it will require all the virtue and all the patriotism which the Democratic party ever brought out in its palmiest days, to prevent a political fraud from being concocted and foisted upon the Democratic voters, for their suffrages.

THE GENERALS.—All the leading generals of the war—the battle scarred and war-worn campaigners are for Grant and Colfax—Sherman, Thomas, Sheridan, Schofield, Howard, Meade, Canby, Hooker, Burnside, Logan, Palmer, Cox, Geary, Terry, Ord, Rawlings, Wilson, Fairchild, and Sickles.

GRANT ANALYZED.

A. D. Richardson, in his forthcoming life of Grant, says:

Some still see in him only the darling of fortune—energetic mediocrity, which has blundered into success. I think such are misled by two of his peculiar qualities:

"I. His unimaginativeness. When he has nothing to say, he says nothing. In private he fills no interstices of conversation by remarks upon the weather, or inquires after the babies of his visitor. In public he can make no speeches simply of form or compliment; and since the world cared to hear his opinion on affairs, his official position has never allowed him to speak freely. But in public or private, when he has anything to utter by tongue or pen, he says it with extreme rapidity and clearness, in terse, marowy, idiomatic English. Even then he clothes his thoughts in no flowers of rhetoric, but presents them in the plainest words. Napoleon's memorable sayings are all of this order: 'From these summits forty centuries look down upon you.' 'We will carry our victorious eagles beyond the pillars of Hercules.' Grant's are the exact antipodes: 'I have no terms but unconditional surrender.' 'I propose to move immediately upon your works.' 'I shall fight it out on this line if it takes all summer.' 'I found the army like a balky horse.' 'General Butler was bottled up.' Said the dramatic Corsican, after Austerlitz: 'Soldiers, I am satisfied with you. You have decorated your eagles with immortal glory.' Said the mattrr-of-fact American to his shouting men after Port Gibson: 'Soldiers, I thank you. That is all I can say. You have done a good day's work to-day, but you must do a better one to-morrow.' No shining rhetoric, or poetic gushes; only the simple, unadorned fact.

"II. He is the most undramatic of men. Scott was nicknamed by his enemies 'Fuss and Feathers.' Grant has less fuss and fewer feathers than any other public man of his day. He believes, with the Chinese proverb, that 'That which is, is.' He accepts things just as he finds them, not troubling himself about the 'Eternal Verities' but doing promptly, thoroughly and subordinately the duty which lies right before him, however prosaic and disagreeable. He acts his convictions instead of talking them.

* * * "He is utterly genuine and guileless. He still preserves in his high estate the sweetness and simplicity of his country boyhood. Altogether free from cant, his lips, obeying the teachings of his mother, have uttered no oath, been soiled by no coarseness.

"He is a miracle of serenity and self-poise. During the terrors of Belmont, when an aide, with pallid cheeks, cried, 'Why, General, we are surrounded!' there was no perceptible change in his pleasant face or calm voice as he answered, 'Then we will cut our way out.' Three years later, as he read Lee's dispatch proposing the surrender of the army of Northern Virginia, he was equally unmoved; no elation shone in his face or sounded in the ordinary tone in which he said, 'Well, General Rawlins, how do you think that will do?' 'Tried by both extremes of fortune, and never disturbed by either,' he remains as simple and unaffected to-day as in his years of poverty and obscurity."

LAKE HURON CORRESPONDENCE.

RICHMONDVILLE, LAKE HURON, June 15th, 1868.

Ed. C. R. Pattison:—Have you ever lived on the shores of one of our Northern Lakes, with dense woods behind and the great blue waters in front of you? There is such a grandeur in the wildness of the scenery that you quite forget the world is so old, and has lasted so long. Viewing Nature in this primative condition one almost imagines he is living alone, with only the sound of the waters, and the echo of bird-song never ceasing through these long bright days. Some one has said, "Art spoils us for life." Surely, then, Nature must qualify us for it.—There is such an elixir of strength in her great laberatory it would be well if thousands who are pent up in our sickly, smoky cities year after year, could avail themselves of the opportunity of enjoying occasionally a season in a wild, new country, to restore the old and awaken new energies, new life within. The cathedral is the greatest work of art man can erect; and yet a tree is greater, with its round and heavy form, and its black-green foliage. The great pipes of the organ breathe out full harmony, till the very air shakes under the peal, and there is truly no instrument greater; but the sound of summer in the crowned monarchs of the forest is much greater.—They teach us in winter, when the frost has seared the leaves and dropped them to the stormy earth beneath, to submissively lay our glories by and accept the trials of life, and in spring to look up and clothe themselves afresh in new garments of trust. God has created this beauty so beautiful, for relieving human wants—so should our hearts comprehend the glory of this beauty, and the generosity of its distribution. They are all great and beautiful, these woodlands and hills—but the soul that admires is greater still, because it is imperishable. If there is one suffering, prayerful heart, that one is nearer God than the brightest star in the firmament above, or the waters beneath. How should our souls rejoice in this exceeding benevolence?

It seems on these summer mornings like the birth of a new life, and as tho' God, like a father, was smiling over it all—the sun, the green earth, and the lake—and we with our immortal spirits are created to outlive them all in glory everlasting.

These lakes are frequently visited by dense fogs, and the water will have the appearance of a great cloud trailing its fleece along on the surface.—Here and there the eye catches sight of a lonely vessel trying to plow its way through, though with great difficulty. Far away in the offing a steamer hugs the waters almost in silence, perhaps laden with impatient, seasick passengers. During the night of heavy fog, signal whistles are blown, till one really imagines these boats are human beings afloat, calling for assistance from the shore. These befogged boats suggest a moral analogy. They are like the political men of our times, who are rendered powerless through the influence of others, who are constantly oscillating between two magnets—of those who are passing most of their time in turning towards, and backing out from, their original purposes. Washington contains many befogged pilots, who, only occasionally catch glimpses of the bright shore.—Tis strange how the stream of political life conceals its further bank as soon as our State pilots sail there!—Then they grow bewildered when called to reason upon questions which agitate the great heart of the people, although they are having the prayers of thousands of loyal hearts throughout the country, many of them run due south when they intended to go north.

Had we—

"One still strong man in a blatent land,
Who could act and dare not lie!"

Our country might be made secure from these profound mists that envelope so many of our great and would-be good coursers, and the shades of the noble heroes which come to us from the silent past, and stalk reprovingly in our midst might be appeased.

But I did not intend to allude to political affairs, though you know everything tends that way now-a-days, even women! I was only desiring to give a description of Nature seen here, hoping it becomes to all, this leafy June, as it does to my soul, a perpetual letter from God, freshly written every day and every hour.

S. J. H.

Masonry is a language by which men of all nations, kindred and tongues are united in one band of brotherhood. To specify all the advantages that have resulted to individuals and the community from the institution, would be but to give a particular history of it from the first establishment to the present time. How often its design influence relieved the way-worn traveler, and sent him on his way rejoicing. How often given the grand hailing sign of distress, which has spoken to his faithful brethren on the shore louder than wind and the waves? Aye, even in the din of battle, the first joy of the combat, when ferocity rages and Mercy sighs farewell, has the spirit of Masonry interposed, stayed the uplifted sabre and spared the blood of the prostrate victim!

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Convention selected, as delegates to the State Convention,

James Dwight, Charles Shier, Chas. Tripp' John C. Mead, J. W. Childs, G. R. Palmer' A. Robinson, A. D. Crane.

CONGRESSIONAL DELEGATES.

H. C. Waldron, S. M. Cutcheon, S. Foster, S. Dean, J. R. Palmer, S. E. Engle, J. W. Brodfold, A. D. Crane, Capt. Spencer, T. D. Lane, J. Carpenter, A. T. Sawyer, B. R. Porter, S. Post.

It was the sense of the Convention, that the County Nominating Convention be called by the 1st of August.

H. P. Baldwin, was the choice for Governor; for Congress, Austin Blair.

REAL ESTATE SALES.—C. Shier, to Ed. King, farm, $11,000; Ed. King, to C. Shier, residence in this city, $3,000.

REV. MR. WILSON has received a furlough from his Church in this city, and is to be absent three months. The pulpit will be supplied by Bishop McCroskey during the pastor's absence.

PROF. A. S. WELCH.—Prof. Welch has been elected U. S. Senator from Florida for the short term—until March 1st, 1869. Prof. Welch is eminently worthy an election for the full term. But the Senators for the full term are already elected.

PROPOSED CONGRESS ST. BRIDGE.—Several plans are before the Council. We understand a plan for an iron bridge has been adopted at the cost of $6,000 indipendent of abutments. It is our impression and quite largely we think of the tax payers that $5,000 ought to erect as good a bridge as the present generation will need. Yet a bridge that will stand for ever and survive the earthquakes of time, the wreck of ages is not to be sneezed at.

STATE CONVENTION.—The Republican Convention meets next Wednesday in Detroit. H. P. Baldwin will probably be nominated Governor. A portion of the present ticket will be renominated. Prof. Payne has been spoken of as candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction. He is doing a great work in our Union School, and can't be spared. Prof. Putnam, of Kalamazoo, is also spoken of. He is a strong man, a great educator, and will make a capital nominee. Prof. Estabrook is talked of by his friends. He would make a valuable Superintendent, and add strength to the ticket.

IN CHICAGO.—The last week was the most notable in musical matters that the city has ever known. The gathering of so large a body of singers, while it occurs once a year somewhere, cannot be expected to happen at any single place oftener, perhaps than once in a century. Hence it will be seen that the musical festival that has just closed was a rarity and infinitely valuable as a musical experience. It will be after many a year has dropped its name out from the Future, before we shall again hear the grand swell of a thousand rich voices, speaking in thunder tones to the depth of the soul. Happy are those who, through much tribulation of heat and cold, have heard everything that pertained to the grand occasion.—Chicago Republican.

MR. MALTMAN.—The lecture last Saturday evening before the Normal Lyceum, given by Mr. Maltman, was a success in every sense of the word. The Hall was well filled notwithstanding the unpleasantness of the evening. For an hour and a half the lecturer held the perfect attention of his audience. All seemed deeply interested, and with their sympathies followed him as he gave a minute description of Prison Life in Andersonville, with its attendant horrors, in reality a living death. The story of the escape and recapture was alike interesting. The lecture was given with no feelings of revenge, but a simple and correct statement of facts as they existed. Yet the horrors of Andersonville were but half told, the lecturer chosing to pass the worst features by unnoticed. Mr. M. is really a fine speaker, and did his subject full justice.

TERRIBLE CALAMITY.—Last Saturday evening the steamer Morning Star and the bark Courtland collided on Lake Erie The steamer was on its relgular trip from Cleveland to Detroit. The bark was loaded with iron. It was a very dark night and boisterous. It would seem that the bark was not properly provided with signal lights, or if she were they were not seen. In ten minutes after the collission the Star went down, the bark in about an hour. At least 21 persons were drowned. Mr. J. H. Garrett, a former resident of this city, now in Detroit, lost his wife and child. He says

"That his wife, child and himself had retired to their stateroom, which was favorably situated in the after part of the boat. He was very much fatigued and had fallen asleep. At the time of the crash, his wife arose and first discovered to him the appalling situation. He immediately put life preservers around them, secured a plank in addition, and prayerfully commending them to Heaven's protection, committed them with himself to the waters. After the plunge he called upon them, but no answer came from the terrible, roaring darkness, and he entertains but the faintest hope of ever seeing his loved ones again."

He never will. They sleep in the depths of the Lake, mother and child. This community will sincerely sympathize with Mr. Garrett in his deep affliction. There were many hair-breadth escapes. Life preservers saved a large number. Several hours in water during a heavy storm in a dark night is no light matter. It required a good

OUR SCHOOLS.—Our Union School goes into Summer quarters—closing the campaign last Thursday evening. The examinations have been highly creditable.—Miss Sherman's class in French did admirably. Prof. Babcock's in Natural Philosophy developed a thorough understanding of the subject. These were the only classes we heard examined. The children's exhibition Wednesday afternoon was a pleasing affair. The exercises in the evening were highly spoken of. We were pulled too many different ways to attend in the evening.

FOREPAUGH'S MAMMOTH MENAGERIE AND CIRCUS.—By reference to advertisement in another column, it will be seen that this gigantic establishment will exhibit in Ypsilanti, on Monday, June 29th. We congratulate our citizens on the advent of a first class exhibition in our midst. A cotemporary says:

"This popular combination needs but a simple announcement to create a furore among the amusing-going people. It is unquestionably the largest, the most gorgeous and sensational, in its entirety, of all the traveling exhibitions in the country. Adam Forepaugh, though comparatively a new man in the managerial department of the profession, has hit upon the right plan to succeed. He gives his agents strict injunctions not to place upon the bills a single feature, either in the equestrian or zoological departments, which is not legitimate, and which is not actually to be witnessed every day under his colossal pavilion. In other words, he performs everything he advertises, depending entirely for success upon the bona fide merits of his great exhibition. Actuated by this principle, and it must henceforth be the standard in this country, the people too often having been the willing dupes of third rate mountebank shows, advertising four times as much as they perform. Mr. Forepaugh's tour last year through the Eastern States was a perfect triumph of success. The same leading features, with an accessinn of new and leading ones, sufficient to make a single show of itself, are still maintained, to add to the brilliancy and splendor of a combination never before equalled on this continent. We bespeak for it a hearty reception."

YPSILANTI BRASS BAND.—Several attempts were made to organize a permanent Band in this city and failed. One organized several years ago and went down on account of the death of the leader—Geo. Hall, who fell from a building at the depot and was killed. Again, the leaving of James Raymond, who went into the army, caused a second failure. Last year an organization was effected that bids fair to prove an abiding success. Mr. T. Glass, formerly a workman in the COMMERCIAL office, now residing in Toledo, was the leader. The presen. leader is Mr. Fred. Cutler, an active and energetic young man, and a superior musician, who has organized the Band on an enduring basis. The persons composing the band are—

Fred. Cutier, leader and 1st E. B. Cornet.
Carr Webb, 2d E. B. Cornet,
The. Henderson, 1st. B. B. Cornet.
Walter Hewitt, Musical Director.
E. Cotton, Solo, 1st E. B. Alto.
Gus. Root, 2nd E. B. "
Alf. Stuck, Solo—B. B.—Barrister.
Charles Whitmarsh, 2nd B. B. Barrister.
John Wise, B. B. Bass.
Jim Henderson, E. B. "
Jim Eaton, Bass Drum and Symbols.
Jim Davis, [last but not least] Side Drum.

The wagon is in modern style, costing near $400. The boys have not quite paid for it yet. We hope our citizens will be liberal. Mr. E. Cotton is deserving much praise for his energy in pushing this enterprise to repletion and generously advancing his own means.

WORKS OF ART.—M. S. Smith & Co. have on exhibition a beautiful specimen of sculpture, wrought out of marble by Mr. C. N. Pike, a resident of Ypsilanti. The idea is taken from the passage of scripture which speaks of a "Crown of Glory" being awarded to the righteous. The central figure is that of an angel, on whose head the crown is descending. It is a sublime conception skillfully executed.—The artist never had any instruction, therefore the skill must be intuitive. He worked for years in his father's marble quarry in Vermont. He is now engaged on a medallion of Gen. Grant, which will be set in a frame, the backgrounds of which will be of velvet morocco, thus causing the figure to stand out "in bold relief."—Detroit Post.

THE LATEST VETO.

Andrew Johnson has profited little by his narrow escape from ignominious expulsion from his high office. His latest veto is more moderate aud guarded in terms than some of his earlier fulminations, but is surcharged with their spirit in all its bitterness. If he cannot bite, he can still venomously hiss. He cannot defeat the restoration of Arkansas to self-government and representation in Congress but he can delay it two or three days; and he does his little utmost. His veto is another bid for the democratic nomination for President two weeks hence, and will be spurned, like its predecessors. Mr. Johnson belongs to a class who are used, but not trusted. The democratic party exults to see the Republicans betrayed and outraged by this ingrate, but will take precious good care to give him no chance to repeat his treachery.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage, bearing date the 18th day of August, A. D. 1865, made and executed by George McCoy and Milla McCoy, his wife, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, to Charles B. Goodrich, and recorded in the office of Register of Deeds for Washtenaw County, Michigan, on the 29th day of November, 1865, at 10½ o'clock A. M., in liber 34 of mortgages, on page 325, and assigned by said Goodrich to Asa Rice, on the 29th day of April 1867, and assignment recorded in said Register's office for Washtenaw county, May 7th, 1867, at 12 o'clock M., in Liber 1 of assignment of mortgages, on page 374, by which default the power of sale contained in said mortgage became operative, and no suit or proceeding at law or in Chancery having been instituted to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof, and the sum of one hundred and sixty-nine and twenty-nine one hundredths dollars, principal and interest, being now claimed to be due on said mortgage, and an attorneys fee of twenty-five dollars, as stipulated therein.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.

Prepared by Dr. C. M. JACKSON,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases
OF THE
LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

—o—

Hoofland's German Bitters

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts) of Roots, Herbs and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from Alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, etc., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

Hoofland's German Bitters.

In cases of nervous depression, when some alcoholic stimulus is necessary,

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

should be used.

The Bitters or the Tonic are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, etc., is very apt to become deranged. The result of which is, that the patient suffers from Nervous Debility, have its functions several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, etc.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole System, the Appetite is Strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

Persons Advanced in Life,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will instil new life into their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well-established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health; or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

Hon. Geo. W. Woodward.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:

Philadelphia, March 16, 1867.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours truly,

GEO. W. WOODWARD."

Hon. James Thompson.

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it.

Yours, with respect,

JAMES THOMPSON."

From Rev. Joseph H. Kennard, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir. I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,

J. H. KENNARD,
Eighth, below Coates St.

From Rev. E. D. Fendall,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours truly,

E. D. FENDALL.

Are now supplying families throughout the United States with Teas, through the system of clubs and their regular appointed agents, at a slight advance on cargo prices, and guaranteeing their Teas to be pure and fresh, and also to give entire satisfaction, or they can be returned and the money refunded.

The advantage of buying Teas from our Warehouse is: you save the various profits of Speculators, Brokers, Wholesale Tea Merchants, Jobbers, Wholesale Grocers and Retailers, which in the aggregate, amount to from 50 cents to $1.00 per pound, and also are sure of getting the same quality and standard every time.

Our standard goods all bear our Trade Mark on the bags, and no others are genuine. Parties will please bear this mind, as our great success has induced some unprincipled parties in New Yook, Boston, and other places to imitate our style of putting up good as sugar as they dare to—to entrap the unwary.

Matter of Fact Without the Sensation.

About twenty miles from New York lives a rich man who has a fine estate and an enterprising family, of which the eldest is a beautiful young lady, her father's pride and hope. Last year, while his elegant mansion was building, a young carpenter who had just finished his trade, and whose sole property consisted in a pair of large hands, a stout, good heart, and habits of industry and soberness, came to work upon the premises. Very naturally, the young knight with the broad-ax soon fell in love with the young lady; and, not strange to say, the young lady fell equally in love with him. She spent considerable time each day in watching the progress of the work, particularly that performed by the young mechanic, and he found his greatest incentive and joy in working under the watch of her loving eyes.

The secret, however, soon became an open one, and finally was broken to the young lady's father. He heard the sad news without apparent concern, but, in a few minutes, set off for the village, where he made diligent inquiry respecting the young carpenter, who, he learned, was the only son and support of a widow, but was an intelligent, capable, promising man. The father returned home, and, calling his daughter to his room, asked her how the matter stood between herself and the young carpenter. It was a critical moment to her, and, for a moment, her fears triumphed over all her other feelings, and she burst into tears. The tears were followed by a confession of an attachment that had grown stronger every day, even with the fear that it was doomed to a cruel disappointment—for the object of it was only a poor mechanic. "But I love him with all my heart, and would give my life for him," said the honest girl.

"Does he reciprocate your affection," asked the father.

"That he does," replied the daughter. "But he knows that you would never consent to his paying his addresses to me, and he has been very reserved about it. He talks of going away, because he can't live here without seeing me, and thinks you would not be willing to have him visit the house."

The father sent for the young carpenter, who came to the room with the greatest trepidation. He suspected what was in the wind, and, anticipating an immediate dismissal, his heart was in his throat, when the father said to him, "Young man, how is it that you have dared to carry on a flirtation with my daughter without my consent?"

"That is false, sir, utterly false, sir," the young man replied; "your daughter came to the house where I was at work, and I saw her and loved her.—I could not keep my eyes from looking at her. She returned my look with interest and asked me questions. Almost every day she has been to the house, and her coming makes it seem a heaven to me, sir. But I knew I was only a poor mechanic, with a mother on my hands, and that you would not consent to my offering her any particular attention. So I have kept away.—I'm going off, sir, as soon as the job is done, for I cannot live without seeing her, and I would not do anything dishonorable, or that her father would disapprove."

The young man turned his face toward the window, to hide a few stray tears which came to his eyes. The father looked steadily at the secretary, as if it contained something of unusual interest. After a not unwelcome silence, he turned to the young man and said; "You have acted perfectly honorable in the matter. You shall see my daughter all you please. I hear that you are a worthy, industrious young man, and I prefer such a one for my son to any despicable snob. I am sorry your education has been so neglected. But it is not too late to remedy the matter. I will pay your wages to your mother, and send you to school for a year or two. After you get a good foundation laid, I will take you into my business; and if you bear yourself in a worthy manner, one of these days my daughter shall be your wife."

Our readers can imagine the scene and the joy that followed this speech of a wise and kind father, far better than we can now describe them. The young man has just finished a year's course at school, where he has made wonderful progress. The father seems to be as proud of him as he well can be; and he has found that life in his new and elegant mansion on the banks of the Hudson, with an accomplished daughter who cannot sufficiently express her gratitude, and the occasional visits of a noble young man who is working his way up in the world, is only a sweet foretaste of elysium. If other rich fathers would follow his example, there would be fewer elopements and less misery than at present, and a great many happier hearts and happier homes.

The Chicago Platform.

It is very amusing to observe the numerous and directly opposing constructions put upon that marvellous, many hued, many sided piece of architecture, the Chicago Radical platform. By the Radicals it is claimed to be radical, by the Conservative Republicans it is thought to be conservative, by the protectionists it is thought to be protective, by the free trade Republicans it is anti tariff. The Evening Post and other Eastern papers insist that it favors the boudholders, while the Western Radical papers are quite certain that it hints at the payment of the bonds in greenbacks. Phillips and Tilton denounce it because they think it is not black enough; others because it is too black. It is really one of the most remarkable productions of modern times. To every person it presents a different aspect. In whatever direction it is looked at it exhibits a different color.

In reading and studying this curious platform, claiming to be an exposition of the principles and policy of the Republican party, we are reminded of the old story of the sailor and Stephen Girard. The angry sailor, on account of some deduction to his pay, called the old merchant "a d—d seven sided scoundrel." Girard, pleased rather than offended at the curious assertion, and wondering how the sailor could make out that any man could have seven sides, agreed to pay twice his full claim if the tar would prove to his satisfaction that he was "seven-sided." "Well," said Jack, "there is your front side and your back side, your right side and your left side, your inside and your outside, that is six, and then there is your blasted old 'blind side,' that makes seven." The story goes that Stephens paid over all the sailor claimed.

It was somewhat difficult to make out that a man had seven sides, but it is not at all difficult to show that the Chicago platform presents about twice that number, not counting any of Its numerous "blind sides." Let us see, there is its good payment side, its Eastern side, its Western side, its Northern side, and its Southern side, its Radical side and its Conservative side, its protective tariff side, and its free trade side, its States right side for the North, and no States right side for the South, then there is the negro side and the bread and butter side for the Radicals and Negroes, and the outside for all others. It is not necessary now to name any more of the sides of this extraordinary structure, then the "Good Lord and Good Devil sides," which appear very auspiciously.—Free Press.

Initiating a Candidate into the Good Templars.

The method of initiating a candidate into a lodge of Good Templars is but a slight improvement upon the same programme so long in vogue by the ancient and honorable fraternity of the "Sons of Malta." A "chap" who was taken from a lager beer saloon, where he got "tight" without knowing that lager beer would intoxicate, was put through a course of cold water treatment by the Good Templars a few evenings since. He "peaches" on the Good Templars, and gives the following expose of their initiation ceremony, for which, no doubt, he will be put through another course of cold water "sprouts" at the next meeting of the Lodge. In the first place, the victim for initiation is blindfolded, bound hand and foot and thrown into a cider press, and pressed for five minutes.—This is done for the purpose of cleaning the system of all old drunks. He is then taken out of the cider press, and by means of a force-pump gorged with cistern water, after which a soaking plaster is put over his mouth, and he is rolled across the room four or five times in a barrel, the choir at the same time singing the cold water song. He is now taken from the barrel and hung up by the heels till the water runs out through his ears. He is then cut down, and a beautiful young lady hands him a glass of cistern water.—A cold water bath is then handed him, after which he is showered with cistern wate. He is then made to read the Water Works act ten times, drinking a glass of cistern water between each reading. After which the old oaken bucket is hung around his neck, and fifteen sisters with squirt guns deluge him with cistern water. He is then forced to eat a peck of snow, while the brothers stick his ears full of icicles.—He is then run through a clothes wringer, after which he is handed a glass of cistern water by a young lady. He is then again gorged with cistern water, and his boots filled with the same, and he is laid away in a refrigerater.—This initiation is now almost concluded. After remaining in the refriggerator for the space of half an hour, he is taken out and given a glass of cistern water, run through a clothes-wringer—and becomes a Good Templar.

Dreadful Accident—A Young Lady Cut to Pieces.

From the Rochester N. Y. Democrat, June 12.

One of the most dreadful accidents, taking into consideration its details, which we have been called upon to record for some time, occurred in this city last evening. The circumstances of this exceedingly painful affair are these: Two young ladies, Hiebert, yesterday morning went riding to the Bay, accompanied by two gentlemen, each couple having a horse and buggy. In the evening they returned to the city, and drove up to Wilder street, where the young gentlemen got out of the carriage and went into a drug store to see friends of the party, leaving the ladies in charge of the horses. A gentleman friend came along about the time, and in a playful manner stepped into one of the buggies and drove off. The other young lady who was alone, undertook to follow them, and, just as she was driving toward the Brown street crossing of the New Y. Central railroad, the New York express train, which leaves this city at 9:30 was going west, and the horses becoming frightened and unmanagable, while on the crossing the engine struck the buggy, breaking it to atoms, mangling the form of its human occupant, and crumbling most every bone in the body of the animal. The sight, as related by the few persons who witnessed the accident, was most appalling. Along the track for twenty-five yards or more lay the remains.—The corpse of the young lady, with the garments torn to shreds, almost every bone broken, and her body cut to pieces, was thrown out on one side of the track. The horse lay at some distance with his legs cut off and dead.—The buggy, or rather the wreck, was in another place. Persons gathered around and conveyed the mangled remains of the girl to her parent's house on Francis street, not ten rods from the place where she lost her life. Her name is Sophia Heibert, and she and her sister live with their step-father, whose name is Le Bar. The deceased is twenty-five years of age. It is said that the same girl narrowly escaped being killed at the North street crossing yesterday.

It is a source of gratification to me to feel that I have the support of those who supported me through the great rebellion which we have passed. If I did not feel that I had the support of those I never would have consented to be a candidate.—Gen. Grant.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS

ARE the most perfect purgative we are able to produce, and, as we think, has ever yet been made by any body. Their effects have abundantly shown to the community how much they excel the other medicines in use. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart tone and strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every day complaints of everybody, but formidable and dangous diseases. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are entirely harmless, Cures have been made that would surpass belief, were they not substantiated by men of such exalted character, as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians certify to the public the reliability of our remedies, while others have sent us the assurance of their conviction that our Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of our afflicted fellow-men.

The agent below named is pleased to furnished gratis our American Almanac, containing directions for the use of these medicines and certificates of their cures of the following omplaints:—

Costiveness, Billious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from foul stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases which require an evacuant medicine. They also, by purysfying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, suchas Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidney's, Gout, and other kindred disorders arising from a low state of the body, or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations on which they make more profit Demand AYER'S and take no ivthers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they snould have it.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass., and sold by all Druggists and dealers in medicine everywhere. Agent's wanted. (J & J)
